Description

The OBE and COPO session conducted by Dr. D. Henry (Director AIMS) focused on aligning the curriculum with specific, measurable learning outcomes. The session emphasized the importance of student-centered learning, where active participation and engagement are key to achieving defined educational goals. Director Sir highlighted the need for continuous assessment and feedback to ensure that both program and course outcomes are met effectively.

Objectives

- The objective of conducting OBE and COPO sessions was to align curriculum, teaching, and assessments with clearly defined learning outcomes that ensure student achievement.
- The session aims to enhance program quality, ensure industry relevance, and promote continuous improvement in teaching and learning practices.
- OBE and COPO sessions focus on ensuring that program and course outcomes meet industry standards, preparing students for real-world challenges.
- The session aims to establish a system of continuous assessment and feedback to monitor progress and improve educational quality.
- It helps to ensure compliance with national and international accreditation standards, enhancing the credibility and recognition of the academic programs.

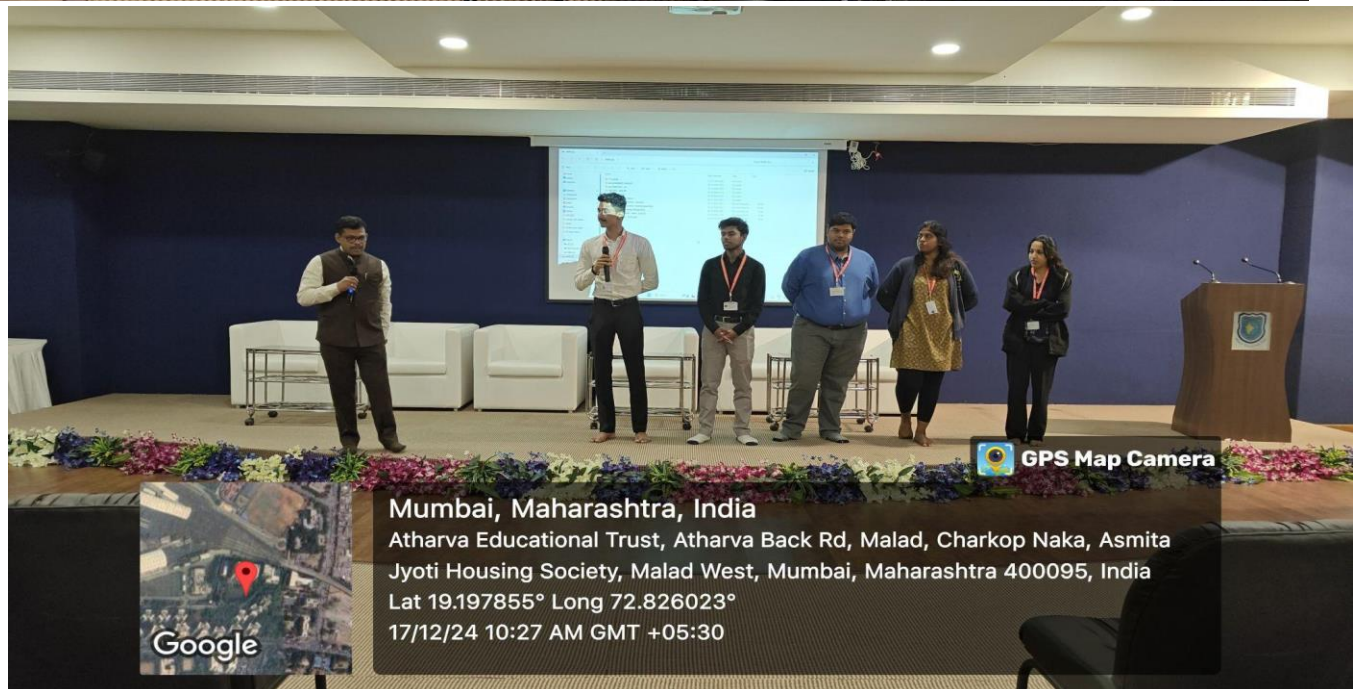

Learning Outcomes

- Student Centric Approach: The core focus of OBE is to design educational programs that are centered around the specific outcomes students are expected to achieve by the end of the program. This includes both knowledge and skills.
- Clear and Measurable Outcomes: OBE stresses the importance of defining learning outcomes that are specific, measurable, and achievable. Each outcome should be clear enough to guide both teaching and assessment strategies effectively.
- Continuous Improvement: One of the most important aspects of OBE is the emphasis on feedback and continuous improvement. Teaching methods, assessments, and learning outcomes must be evaluated regularly and revised based on student performance and feedback.

- Active Student Engagement: OBE encourages active learning. Instead of passive listening, students are expected to engage in problem-solving, group discussions, and hands-on activities that help them achieve the desired outcomes.
