Report on 34th Project Friday – Session on Financial Market Insights

I, a student of MMS at Atharva Institute of Management Studies, would like to present a report on the guest lecture conducted under the “Project Friday” initiative.

The session was held on 27th March 2026 at the AET Campus, Malad, Mumbai. The guest speaker for the session was Mr. Vineet Gupta, Vice President – Business Development at Ticker Data Limited. He delivered an insightful and detailed lecture on financial markets and the various career opportunities available in this field.

The session began with an introduction to financial markets. Sir explained that financial markets are platforms where buyers and sellers trade financial instruments such as shares, bonds, currencies, and derivatives. He emphasized that these markets play a very important role in the economy by helping businesses raise funds and ensuring proper allocation of financial resources.

He further explained the different types of financial markets in a very simple and understandable manner. He spoke about the capital market, where long-term securities like stocks and bonds are traded, helping companies in expansion and growth. He also explained the money market, which deals with short-term instruments such as treasury bills and commercial papers used mainly for liquidity management.

In addition, he discussed the equity market, where shares of companies are bought and sold, and investors earn returns through dividends and price appreciation. The debt market was explained as a platform where borrowing and lending take place through bonds and debentures. He also introduced us to the derivatives market, which involves financial contracts like futures and options, and the foreign exchange market, where currencies are traded globally.

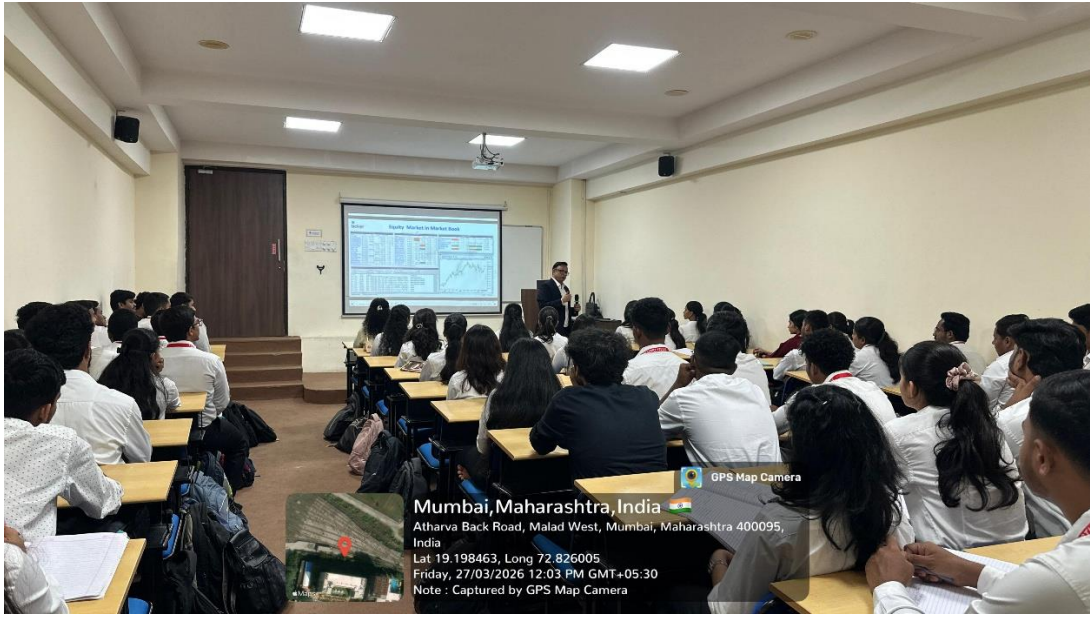

The most important part of the session was the discussion on career opportunities in financial markets. Sir explained that there are many career options available for MBA finance students. He spoke about roles such as equity research analyst, investment banker, financial analyst, portfolio manager, stock trader, risk manager, and wealth manager. He also highlighted that these roles require strong analytical skills, financial knowledge, and continuous learning.

He guided us on how to build a career in this field by gaining practical knowledge, doing internships, and pursuing professional certifications like CFA and NISM. He also emphasized the importance of staying updated with market trends and developing strong communication and decision-making skills.

Overall, the session was very informative, interactive, and beneficial for all the students. It helped us gain a clear understanding of financial markets and motivated us to explore career opportunities in this domain.

I am grateful to our institute for organizing such an insightful session under Project Friday, which added great value to our academic learning.
