DESCRIPTION

The students of MMS Class B (Batch 2025–2027) from Atharva Institute of Management Studies visited the Multi Commodity Exchange (MCX) located in Andheri on 4th November 2025.

Students were instructed to report by 11:00 AM near the MCX building. By 11:15 AM, everyone was comfortably seated in the conference hall where Mr. Kunal Shah, the guest speaker, conducted a 45-minute interactive session exclusively for the Atharva management students.

The session was designed to provide practical exposure and real-world understanding of the commodity and derivatives markets. Mr. Shah ensured the discussion was two-way and engaging, with several students actively asking questions and sharing insights.

Topics covered included:

- Gold and global price determination
- Role of MCX in commodity markets
- Hedging strategies and importance
- Basics of options trading
- Understanding derivatives
- Overview of commodity trading

The speaker emphasized how global events, currency fluctuations, and market psychology play key roles in commodity price movements.

He also shared valuable tips for aspiring finance and management professionals, highlighting the importance of:

- Reading financial newspapers daily
- Staying updated on international market trends
- Following economic news and global indicators
